

PreVisor Recognized for Game Changing Recruiting Technology by Onrec Online Magazine
PreView™ computer adaptive testing singled out for innovation at Chicago conference

PreVisor, the global leader in employment assessments and selection solutions that connect hiring decisions to business results, announced its PreView™ next-generation computer adaptive testing (CAT) platform was recognized as a 2008 Game Changing Recruiting Technology by Online Recruitment Magazine at the 2008 Onrec Expo in Chicago.

“Onrec 2008 Award winners are all leading-edge companies,” said RD Whitney, CEO of Onrec USA. “We’ve entered a very exciting phase of the online recruitment industry, and these organizations are to be congratulated for helping propel online recruitment forward.”

Computer adaptive testing (CAT) is an administration method that adapts to a candidate’s ability level as they proceed through the test by scoring each answer and presenting the next item based on the accuracy of their previous response. There are many benefits to using CAT, including shorter test time, more precise measurement, and reduced risk of cheating. While this form of testing has long been used in education, online delivery - particularly in unproctored settings - is just now beginning to be widely accepted for hiring.

PreVisor CEO Noel Sitzmann explained, “We are committed to driving innovative technology. PreView™ is one example of what we’ve delivered to our clients this past year. We appreciate the recognition for this fine set of tools from those who report on the talent measurement sector.”

Onrec 2008 Recruitment Technologies Award Winners will be featured in a November article in Online Recruitment Magazine.
